Faithopolis welcomes superheroes to VBS

Many of our heroes dressed the part for their first day of VBS. If you know your comic book companies, you might find it interesting that DC characters seemed to outnumber Marvel by at least 4 to 1 — as seen in these images from Monday. (Editor's Note: At least Marvel movies are better!) Today was official T-shirt day, but Wednesday is another chance to show off your favorite superhero clothes before Thursday's official VBS t-shirt day returns.

ELIJAH DEFEATS THE POWER OF FALSE GODS

The BRAVE and the BOLD

So much news to share with you today so let's get right into it!

■ We'll start with some housekeeping. Something funky happened with AOL since we added VBS2018 as a username last year, and now it doesn't seem to be active. So if you have news to share, use the new e-mail address listed at bottom. Thanks.

■ No sooner were the official t-shirts handed out on Monday when our steely-eyed heroes went looking for the hidden Minnesota Vikings logo. And at least six heroes found it. After two years of making it nearly impossible, except for Hailey Schelich, it was pretty easy this time around. Congratulations to the winners. All prizes are now gone!

■ Team Superfriends knows how to enjoy their super snacks. Just look at the smiling faces of Annabelle Derbyshire, Mary Claire Buchanan and Kinley Wheeler!

■ No room for a picture but we heard that Charlie Falcone and Kenny Falcone showed up Monday at F.A.I.T.H. HQ carefully eyeing the Batmobile. The report is that even before VBS 2018 began, they already were willing and able to use their super powers to serve God.

Text your VBS stories and pictures by 2 p.m. to 321-698-0591 or email them to jbanke@milasolutions.com. Add full names, ages & grades, please.

Monday: Not a good day for Midianites

Hello True Believers! VBS is turning out to be an astonishing experience for our heroes and heroines. Our superheroes are sure learning how to use their powers God's kingdom! And Bible stories help.

On Monday they learned about Gideon and how courageous he was to trust God when he had to face the evil Midianites. It's hard to believe that only 300 warriors from Israel, led by Gideon, defeated the massive Midianite army by blowing their horns and screaming.

It's clear that by trusting God and having courage in the Lord, God will help us through our problems and face our fears!

It also helps to be strong, so our heroes went outdoors for a little field ops training. Among the games played on Monday: Heroes and Villains, Kickball, Kryptonite Relay, Superhero Tag, and Water Balloon Toss.

Heroes and Villains is a superhero twist on the classic game, Sharks and Minnows. In Kryptonite Relay, the kids ran in a relay race along while holding a water balloon. In order to fight the hot Florida summer sun, the kids played Water Balloon Toss — which on a hot day means losing is winning.

Telling the story of Gideon included an activity in which our heroes made their own horns to blow and shout our love for God. It must have worked. Did anyone see any Midianites around Faithopolis?
